Syed Rafay Hussain is an associate who focuses his practice on a wide range of litigation matters. He represents clients through all phases of litigation, from legal research and discovery to motion practice. Known for his strong analytical abilities, meticulous attention to detail, and thoughtful written advocacy, Syed helps clients navigate complex disputes and develop strategies tailored to their objectives.

Syed has particular experience in legal research, brief writing, and motion practice. As a summer law intern with the California Department of Justice, he contributed substantially to a successful brief before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. His experience also includes researching complex legal issues, drafting motions, and developing persuasive arguments based on the unique facts and legal challenges presented in each matter. He is skilled at identifying key issues early, analyzing complex information, and helping position cases for effective resolution.

Syed combines careful preparation, creative problem-solving, and strategic advocacy to help clients address challenging legal issues with confidence and clarity. His thoughtful approach to research, analysis, and written advocacy helps support successful outcomes throughout the litigation process.
