

Elizabeth Maczko

Counsel

Direct: 312.471.8679 Email: emaczko@rshc-law.com

Elizabeth Maczko represents employers in complex employment, traditional labor, and general litigation matters in federal and state courts, before administrative agencies, and in arbitration. She has successfully litigated numerous cases concerning a wide range of claims involving discrimination, harassment, retaliation, discipline, termination, whistleblowing, leaves and accommodations, wage and hour, sales commissions, personnel records, contract disputes, fraud and negligent misrepresentation, unfair labor practices, and collective bargaining.

Elizabeth maintains a robust arbitration and administrative practice. She has served as first-chair in numerous arbitrations before the American Arbitration Association; labor grievance arbitrations arising under collective bargaining agreements; and hearings before the National Labor Relations Board. She also frequently defends employers in agency investigations and proceedings before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Illinois Department of Human Rights, Illinois Human Rights Commission, Illinois Department of Labor, Cook County Commission on Human Rights, and City of Chicago Commission on Human Relations.

In addition to her litigation practice, Elizabeth partners closely with employers to reduce risk through proactive counseling. She provides day-to-day advice on employee relations, compliance, internal investigations, handbooks, employment agreements, and workplace policies, and delivers management training on labor relations and best practices.
